Hongkong, 7TH June, 1864.

A successful attack was made on Saturday night by a gang of thieves on a house in Bridges Street, the tenant whereof was (for he has since left) a reputable Chinese cook, whose mother and wife dwelt with him. The case as a case has not very much in it beyond | (1 the ordinary run of cases, but there is a moral in it, to which we would call the especial attention of our readers.

The attack was made and conducted in this wise. Thirteen thieves, all armed, Chinese fashion, came, deliberately broke open the house, and proceeded to ransack it of every vestige of moveable property except the furniture. The old woman clung to one of the boxes which contained all her worldly effects. and was thereupon cut in three places about and Circular Saws; a powerful STEAN populous, was aroused, and amongst the num--the whole under the Superintendence of Lo- ted his musket, which they threw away with contempt. They then proceeded to carry off their booty, with a crowd of people looking at them, not the smallest obstruction being offered nor any pursuit attempted. The thieves made clear off with their booty, not a trace did they leave behind. The Indian Constable DOOK COMPANY'SESTABLISHMENTS at after recovering the fright, also recovered his was found to be seriously injured and in the course of the day following, being too terrified to remain, he found quarters elsewhere. On Sunday night, the thieves finding that they had been successful; paid the same street another visit. On this occasion they encountered no opposition whatever from the police. as much as even a solitary Indian Constable was not to be seen. There are a number of Macao people living in the street, who, think ing that forbearance had already ceased to be a virtue, determined on making a demonstration. One of these, being the proprietor of a musket, conceived the idea of ascertaining the largest sale of any Medicine in the ing the report and reverberation thereof, became panie stricken and fled. The Macao people pursued and captured a fugitive. How the prize is to be condemned we cannot compremade the unsuccessfull attack on Sunday night -on the latter occasion however nothing was stolen, nor was an entry actually made but only attempted. If the burglars who enterand Co.'s godowns, and cut open a bale of goods for the convenience of removal, could only be prosecuted for the attempt to sheal. the prisoner in the present case, even should be identified as belonging to the Sunday night gang, can only be prosecuted for an attempt to The case judged per se may be deemed by some rather Indicrous than serious. The poet language inust have been very hard pressed for food ere they could be driven undertake such a bold robbery, but Coal Timber, Iron, Lead, and other heavy or then they should certainly not have chop-Merchandize protected by Fire Insurance either though to be sure, old women are very ag-for long or short periods. gravating when their tongues get a going. gravating when their tongues get a going. less resistance or the poor burglars for gashing her breast, is a question which entirely depends on the taste of the reader.

In favor of the poor burglars we must advocate the temptation placed in their way. They knew that there would be no obstruction except an isolated and terrified Indian consrequested to make immediate payment and table, who was beyond all support, and who 3 the undersigned before the 30th day of June, their intelligence and zeal they had obtained information to the effect that the house which they contemplated to attack contained a quantity of superfluous clothing which the variety bernah but beiten it willet bed allered

They therefore in the boldest and most straight forward menner, laid violent hands on the property they coveted, and by their ad

It may be argued that the circumstance tends strongly to destroy the confidence of the public in the police, and that life and property being consequently masafe, the wealth and well-being of the colony suffer material-We are assured that the dread of thieves amongst the Chinese in Hongkong is so great at the present mement, that little if saything short of a panic exists. All that may be very true, but what is that to the thieves? They are provided a passage to or from Canton in commodious steamers, at ten cents per head -they make one of these bold raids, secure their booty, return to Canton with it as their luggage and there pawn it. Our local authorities allow them come and go without let or hindrance, and keep the police out of the rain whilst these little operations are being carried on! Can cause and effect more naturally produced? To be sure if any of them should be brought before Judge Ball they stand a fair chance of being sent to the salubrious shades of Stone Cutters Island. But then where there is no risk there is prize money, and if the danger were removed the business of a burglar would become as common vance, a deduction being made to parties taking a number as the Taiping rebellion. What can the prosperity of the colony or the depreciation of property in it owing to the insecurity of life and property, concern the local authorities? They are responsible only to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, who is little likely to judge of them by the list of accidents and offences. What political capital could they acquire, even if they made the colony as hot for thieves, as they make the Government service for honest independent men?

What does the Governor care for occurrences of this sort, beyond seeing them officialised and properly explained?" His house is guarded with British troops—he ignores the local press entirely, all he learns of these mathis ears. If the community have complaints or suggestions to make, every facility is afforded them, and we must admit every courtosy extended towards them. Why should the Governor put himself out of the way about matters which do not come properly before him? The reader must not for one moment faucy that we are relying on one swallow to declare t summer. Not at all. We press the case we have quoted on public attention, merely Western struck on a coral patch not marked because we have been able to obtain all the particulars of it. Such occurrences we believe happen every night, in a greater or a smaller shape.

On the same night that the robbery in Bridges street happened, an attack was made by a large gang of robbers on Shek-tung-tsui, the place where the gas works are situated. It appears that the people of that district, apprehending an attack, made preparations to resist it, and succeeded in beating the poor fellows off. But we believe, no Police assistance was obtained, or applied for.

We repeat that Registration and flogging form the panacea to the present state of alfairs. We believe that we have fully explained why Registration failed and why flogging was prohibited. But the curse of the colony is disunion, and even its two newspapers cannot agree on so simple a point as the reform of the police. We must have been neculiarly correct in the remarks, we lately made for without the smallest provocation or occasion, we draw on ourself personally the full vengance of our contemporary. who instead of agreeing or disagreeing with what we said, turned to abusing us most mightily.

The Storm.

The violent storm which broke over this city early yesterday morning returned with unabated fury about noon, and continued raging until five o'clock in the afternoon. During the whole of this time the rain continued to fall in torrents, seeming almost to threaten a second deluge; the devastations it has committed are unhappily very serious, and we trust we may never have to record a similar catastrophe.

The ravages which have been made by the heavy rush of water down the mountain amongst the dwellings of the Chinese in Taipingshan are not easy to describe, though most | China ceased on the 31st December, 1863. appalling to witness; numbers of houses are inundated, many indeed entirely demolished. The loss of life in the destruction of the houses in Tank Lane and its vicinity has been considerable a During the whole of vesterday the poor sufferers by this calamity were vainly 31st of December last. endeavouring to preserve some portion of their property from entire demolition, whilst others were seen weeping over its delapidation. No less than five houses in this loca- BRUNGKOW. lity are razed to the ground. Elgin Street, Shelley Street, Aberdeen Street, and Caine Road were quite impassable owing to the the retaining wall of Mosque Terrace was carried away; the water thus making a channel founteelf, rushed down the hill destroying in its course European habitations and stables; totally annihilated by the torrent, which from thence poured with increased velocity to the opposite side of the road and MR. The Franch Press and Garibaldi. The Debats of yesterday writes as follows upon the welcome accorded to Garibaldi in England : " We know now all the details of the entrance of Garibaldi into London. For the last two days the English press has filled its columns with inexhaustible accounts of this event, which deserves in fact for several reasons to attract and fix attention. Never did monarch in the selemnity o his coronation, or conqueror mounting to the Capitol, draw towards him such a crowd of excited [spectators, or occasion such an outburst of ardent enthusiasm. . The English people themselves, accustomed as they are to grand demonstrations, are astonished at their own ardour; and if we may believe the Times, it was only on that day they felt and proved that they, too, were capable of enthusiasm, and that jealous skies had not reserved the privilege of that precious faculty to the quick and ardent people of the south. London, says the City journal, surpassed Naples, and 'the (spectacle of the 11th of April will long live in every memory. It is impossible, in fact, to read without being struck with it the account of this extraordinary ovation, which was not merely a fete for the hero of that day, but a striking homage to the principles of linerty and independence, of which he has been the champion and almost the martyr. But is not a day of error. which we are loth to dwell upon with too much emphasis, redeemend by the acts of daring an of bravery of a soldier who has given to his king a new kingdom, to his country fifteen millions of free citizens, and who has crowned his exploits has excited the admiration of England; this is influence upon the South it would be folly to the buildings proposed to be lighted up. unity of Italy and the resurrection of a nation. ranks of those who have handered Garibaldi a gallant nation to lay down its arms. President Lincoln has issued a Proclamation and it was indeed high time that he should do something. All the recent news from America imparts a novel and critical aspect to the struggle. In the North we see divided councils, rival factions, or blind belief in mere numbers-all the old elements of weakness. The "many-counselled much-enduring" Ulysses Grant is the hero of the hour; and Meade, victor at Gettysburg, has been vanquished by the Cabinet of Washington. He shares with M Dowell, M'Clellan, Pope, Fre-MONT, BURNSIDE, ROSECRANS, and HOOKER the penalty awarded to those who are found guilty of being unsuccessful. How long will the conqueor of Vicksburg be the idol of the people? We must wait for his first reverse. If, on the other hand, he should gain a great victory, who shall bar his way to the presidential chair? Assuredly not Mr. Lincoln. The electioneering machinery is in full work; and indeed armies have been used as canvassers, seeking votes by bayourts as well as bribery. Meanwhile, the early spring campaign is confessedly a failure. The adventurous Sheaman was, only too glad to get safely back to his own head-quarters; the enterprising Butler's raid on Richmond was almost ludicrously unsuccessful, the Army of the Potomac did not like the look of the Army of Virginia; Mobile stands where it did; Charleston still frowns defiance upon its assailants; everywhere the South holds its own. Nor is this all. At the very time when, by sheer reiteration of the statement the Northerners had almost convinced Europe that the resources of the Confederacy were exhausted, and that the question of submission was only of time, the South, strong, dauntless, hash of intelligence in his eyes, " that's my and fiery, turns upon the enemy, assumes the fanuel shirt." offensive, and combats with redoubled vigour. The notable unnesty is not to apply to prisoners; " only to those per-'sons who, being yet at large, and free from any ' arrest, confinement, or durance shall voluntaril come forward and take the said oath with the 'purpose of restoring peace and establishing the 'national authority." Unless the signs of the times are strangely treacherous, the number of these is not likely to be large in 1861. That there may be every facility, however, for the penitent rebels, Mr. Lincoln further decrees that the oath may be taken and subscribed before any commissioned officer, civil, military, or naval, in the service of the United States, or any civil or military officer of a State or Territory not in insurrection who, by the law thereof, may be qualified "for administering ouths." The Centreville (Indiana) True Republican has | Paul's Churchyard. been favored with the diary of Captain Lesson, Fifth Indiana Cavalry, kept for the perusal of Dispensary. his wife. He tells a funny story that happened i in a little town in East Tennessee, as follows: · While at breakfast here there was, to me, an amusing incident took place, which I must give to you briefly. It was a frequent expression among the ladice along the road, ' What pretty menhow nice they look-oh, how I love them!' and occasionally one would say, 'how sweet they look!' One pretty good looking, stout hearty girl exclaimed, 'What sweet looking men-I would give twenty-five cents to kiss one. 1 told her I would give her tifty cents to kiss that one -pointing to Ugly Joe. At him she bounced. and he commenced pushing her away, and in put another girl, and he was about to be too hard for them both, when one of the men caught around him, and held his hands, and instantly smack! they both took him. Oh you ought to have seen his face. After laughing till I was sore, I paid the fifty cents."

> An enthusiastic believer was relating to sceptic some spiritual performances to which he could testify, and, among other things, he said that on a certain occasion the spirit of his wife who had been dead several years, returned to him and, seating herself upon his knee, put her arms around him and kissed him, as much to his gratification as she used to do when living. "You do'nt mean to say," remarked the sceptic, " that the spirit of your wife really embraced and kissed you?" "No, not exactly that," replied the ba-liever; " but her spirit took possession of the body of a female medium, and, through her, embraced and kissed me.

"Sam" said the interesting young mother to her youngest hopeful!" do you know what the difference is between the body and the soul? The soul, my child, is what you love with, the body carries you about. This is your body (touching the little fellow's shoulders and arms); but there is something deeper in ; you can feel it now.
